

Penistone, South Yorkshire 22nd – 24th June

The highest market town in the county and one of the best-kept secrets in South Yorkshire and the Pennines, Penistone deserves close investigation to reveal its hidden treasures - there's something here for everyone. Penistone is located at the foot of the Pennines and is surrounded by beautiful and historic landscape which is well worth exploring on the ground. There's plenty of unbuilt, open countryside such as the moors at Langsett where you can walk for hours and not meet anyone. There are several reservoirs & woodland in the area offering tranquil retreats and spectacular views. With spectacular landscapes on its doorstep, Penistone is the ideal place for walkers

Accommodation – Parsonage House, Thurlstone

Designed by eminent Edwardian architect Edgar Wood, the Parsonage House at Thurlstone in South Yorkshire is a delightful Grade II listed family home dating from 1906, situated in a beautiful and peaceful corner of South Yorkshire. A spacious building with private garden overlooking the neighbouring Thurston Parish Church and with views extending towards Woodhead Pass - Tourist Board 5 Star Rating.

The house has 5 bedrooms plus a sofa bed in the music room; 3 toilets, two showers and a bath; lounge, dining room, kitchen and garden

For relaxing at the end of the day, the Hunstman Pub, just a short walk from the Parsonage House in the centre of Thurlstone, in a well-known real ale house, while in Penistone there is a full range of restaurants, including traditional English, Italian and Indian.

Cost for 2 nights will be around £75 per person.

This is based on 8 sharing All bedrooms are twins or doubles

If doubles are shared, it can accommodate 10 and there is the option of additional z beds in any of the rooms (possibly at reduced rate)

If you would like to book a place, please e mail me.

Deposits of £35 will be due end of March with the balance payable and of April.

